HOUSING

Displacement & Eviction

When a tenant or mobile homeowner is facing displacement and eviction, it is recommended to take the following steps:

1. Contact the Housing Mediation Project, where free, trained third-party mediators will determine whether the situation is appropriate for mediation. During mediation, mediators help both parties find a mutually acceptable resolution and create a written agreement signed by both parties. Mediators may refer parties to community resources as well.
2. Show up to the mediation! An agreement can't be made if the tenant and landlord aren't present.
3. If the eviction is due to money issues, such as not paying rent or a rent increase, contact Blaine County Charitable Fund and/or South Central Community Action Partnership.
4. Mediators may refer parties to Idaho Legal Aid or the Intermountain Fair Housing Council if the parties have legal questions of concerns.
5. If a court date is set, show up! If the tenant doesn't show up, they will likely receive a default eviction judgement. On the other hand, filing an eviction does not always result in eviction – meaning the tenant might be able to stay in their home if they participate in mediation.

Housing Mediation Project

The Housing Mediation Project is a free mediation program that provides landlords and tenants with an avenue for resolving housing-related issues without filing an eviction with the court. Tenants can avoid an eviction filing on their permanent public record (which can make it extremely difficult to access new housing), maintain stable housing, and reduce disruption if a move is unavoidable. Landlords can receive late and no rent payments, save time, remedy property issues, and avoid legal and court fees associated with filing an eviction.

Affordable Rental Housing

While there is limited permanent affordable housing in the Wood River Valley, there are properties with restricted incomes and rents. Most, if not all, of these properties have waitlists and extensive applications. It is recommended to apply to those that are the best fit and regularly update your application so that you remain on the waitlist.

Housingidaho.com is a list of most rent-restricted properties in Blaine County, including eligibility requirements and application requirements. Here is the hyperlink directly to Blaine County's listings

HOUSING

Market-Rate Housing

The most common way to find market rate housing is through the following mechanisms:

Facebook posts

Most local rental listings are on Facebook in one of the following areas:

Marketplace > “property rentals”

The group “Wood River Valley Rentals”

The group “Ketchum Hailey Bellevue Buy Sell Trade”

Idaho Mountain Express ads

Local rental listings are also found in the classifieds section of the local newspaper, the Idaho Mountain Express.

Word of Mouth

Many landlords in the area prefer to rent to people that they know or have direct referrals for. This goes for whether they're participating in the Lease to Locals program in Ketchum or otherwise.
